

TekBean Computers

Legal Disclaimer

I, the under-signed, understand that in the course of the contractor conducting work upon my property, that the contractor will have taken every reasonable precaution in preventing the following from occurring:

1. damage to computers or computer equipment accessories programs systems or software.
2. loss distortion or erasure of data.
3. the failure of any product supplied to perform its intended function.

Also that any advice or design whether given for a fee or not will result in one the above from occurring. Should the unfortunate occur and damage is made to property other than that stated above, the contractor is liable for the first £250.

Code of Ethics

Should the contractor feel that conducting work for the client goes against their moral and ethical code, then the contractor is free to leave the work uncompleted and not required to commit any further action.

Client's Signature: _____

Date: _____

Contractor's Signature: _____

Date: _____